Qualiten Journals are international peer-reviewed journals that aim to publish latest scientific and medical scholarly content of significant impact. All the submissions other than editorial and commentaries undergo detailed peer review process, in which articles are critically evaluated by editors (members of Editorial Board) and other peer-reviewers for novelty, soundness, impact, reproducibility and ethics. Editors also evaluate other peer-reviewers' comments and authors' response to make final independent decision on acceptance or rejection of articles. Thus, editors are gatekeepers and preservers of quality and integrity of scholarly content. Their task is pivotal in filtering and improving science for the benefit of society.

INVITATION & SELECTION CRITERIA

Each journal's Editorial Board is constructed keeping in mind the diversity as well as depth of scientific research in that Journal's field. We are seeking editors conducting research and/or practice in areas such as basic science, translational science, medical devices, drug development, medicine, healthcare, statistics, regulatory affairs, medical law, and ethics.

Editorial Board membership is primarily invitation based or through a referral from another Editorial Board member. The invitation and selection are based on an overall review of professional experience, including research experience, publication record, match of expertise with the scope of journal, manuscript review experience, mentorship record (trained PhDs/MDs/Postdocs), international acclaim, and overall contribution to the field.

ROLES & RESPONSIBILITIES OF EDITORS

The principal roles and responsibilities (volunteer duties) of Editorial Board members are as following:

- Peer Review and Decision Making: Evaluation of manuscript and peer-reviewers' comments to provide constructive feedback to authors and to make independent decision on acceptance, rejection or resubmission of articles.
- Proposal and Handling of Thematic Topics: Guide and support journal's editorial office in development and management of thematic collections (special issues).
- Guidance in Cases of Ethical Misconduct: Editors evaluate the cases of complex ethical misconduct and disputes (research integrity, data fabrication, data falsification, etc.) and provide their decisions to help Journal maintain the quality
